Another Stand And Deliver Game Played Out
West--Some Boys Are Arrested.

MONEY OR YOUR LIFE GREETED CREW

While Elders Robbed Express Car Youths Hold Up Passenger Coaches--Loss Is Said To Be Small.

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 3.—The regular eastbound Great Northern train which left this city last night was held up by a gang of bandits and the express safe blown open with dynamite, ten miles from here. More than a hundred shots were fired by the bandits and trainmen. Two boys, riding on the "blind baggage" held up the passengers. The boys were arrested later. The train was flagged near the brickyard and two men dressed in long raincoats climbed over the tender and levelled revolvers at the engineer. The baggage and express cars were uncoupled and the engineer forced to run ahead several hundred yards. The express messenger refused to open the car and it was blown open and the safe dynamited. The officers of the company say the amount secured was small. A posse is on the trail. The boys captured say they only met the bandits on the train and did not intend to rob, but thought it a good idea to do so since the game had been started.

The announcement has been made by the general officers of the Great Northern at Seattle that five thousand dollars will be paid for the capture of the robbers. Thus far no trace of them has been discovered.

STICKNEY HITS AT THE COMMISSION

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 3.—In reference to the comments made by members of the interstate commerce commission upon his recent statements, President A. B. Stickney of the Chicago Great Western road declared that the commission is trying to work a big bluff.

"There are six roads engaged in the competitive business between Minneapolis, St. Paul and Chicago," said President Stickney. "Prior to March, 1902, all of these lines were making special arrangements in the nature of rebates with a great many large shippers."

"I will use Minneapolis flour, which is the largest commodity shipped, as an illustration. In March, 1902, the interstate commission procured an injunction against four of these lines forbidding these practices, but two of the competitive lines were not named as defendants in the suit and no injunction was issued against them."

Commission Asks Evidence.
"Believing that it was oversight on the part of the commission—and these two non-enjoined roads were rapidly increasing their tonnage of flour, while the tonnage levied by the enjoined roads was decreasing to the same extent—it is true, as Mr. Knapp says, that I called his attention to the fact that these two roads had been omitted from the injunction."

"Much to my surprise, he used the same bluff that he now uses—that if I would make a complaint against the roads and furnish evidence of their cutting the rate the commission would commence proceedings at once for an injunction against the two non-enjoined roads."

Bluff is Unfortunate.
"This is the same bluff that policemen and police magistrates give the individual citizen who complains that an illegal house or a gambling place has been established in the house adjoining his home. They always say, 'If you will make a complaint before the court and furnish evidence of the fact we will break up the nuisance.'"

"It was a particularly unfortunate bluff on the part of the interstate commerce commission, for at the time they procured the injunction against the four companies they evidently had evidence that at least one of the non-enjoined companies was engaged in the same practices, because they went before the grand jury and had a high official of that company indicted for paying rebates."

Young Man Who Secured The Three Hundred Thousand Dollars of Property Still Held.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPPS-MORRIS.]

New York, Oct. 3.—The police are working on the theory that Leonard, who is accused of the theft of over three hundred thousand dollars in securities, was working under the influence of a man and woman. It is believed he told the story of taking the bonds for fun and only as a "bluff." Members of the family say he is under the influence of a couple and they will do all they can to bring them to justice.

PAT CROWE OF OMAHA IS ARRESTED AT BUTTE

Alleged Kidnap of Millionaire's Son Is Brought to the Police by Supposed Friend.

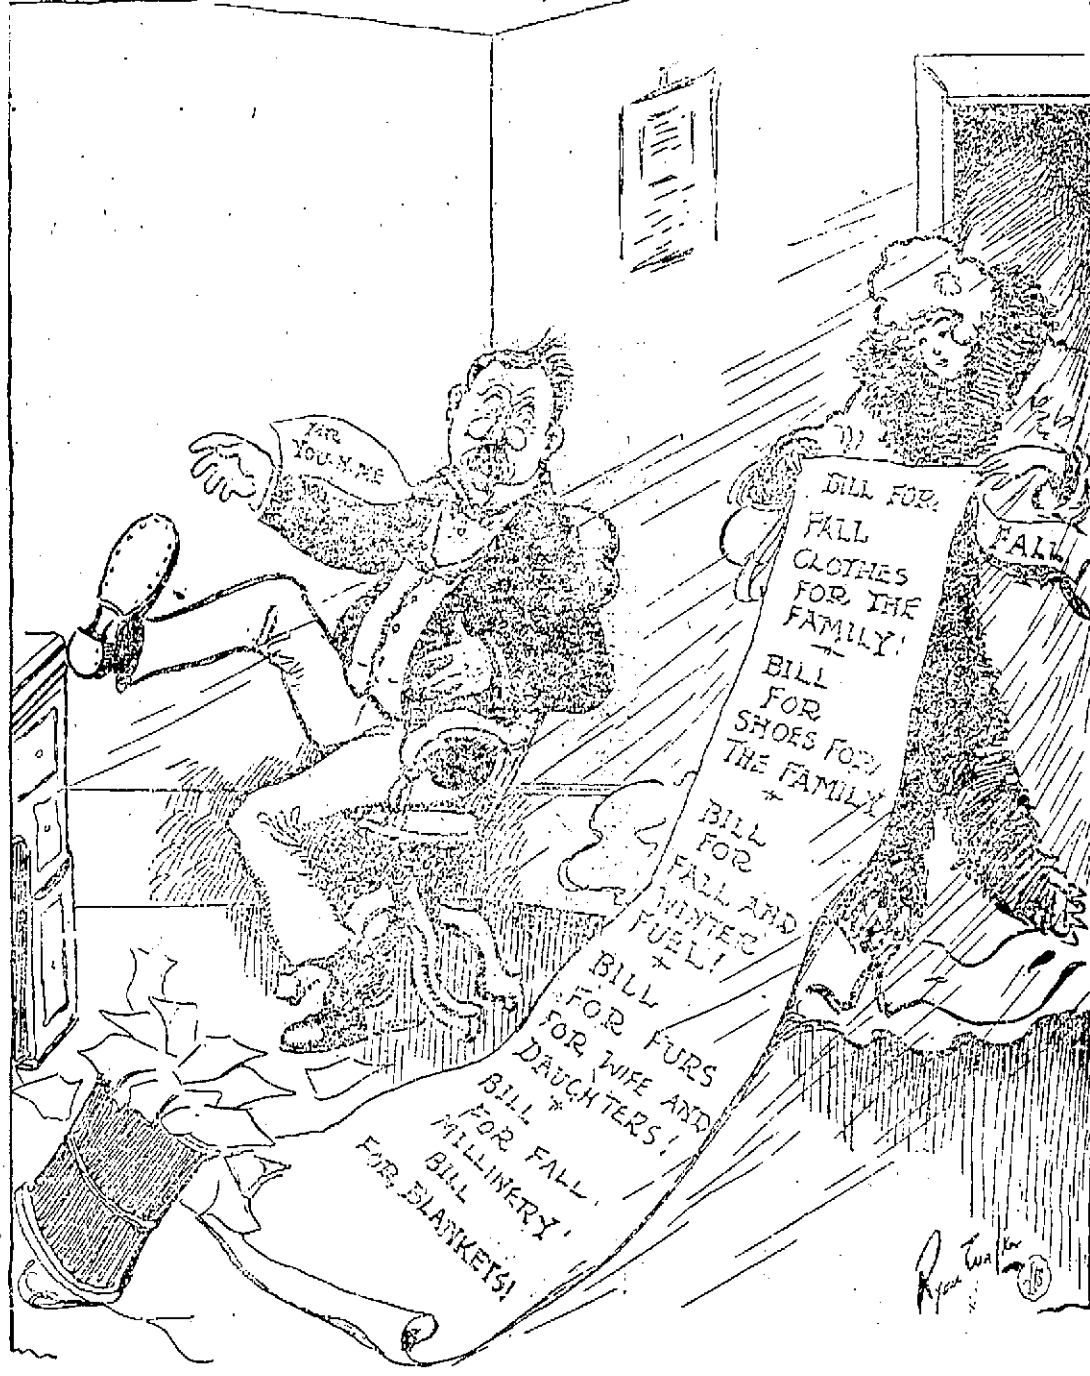

Butte, Mont., Oct. 3.—Pat Crowe, wanted by the Omaha police for the kidnaping of the son of the Millionaire Cudahy in 1900, was arrested in this city Monday night. Crowe's identification has been made complete through photographs sent to the authorities by the Omaha officers.

Crowe acknowledged he was the fugitive, becoming alarmed when he feared the authorities were going to shoot him. Captain of Police W. F. McGrath and Detective McInerney made the arrest, placing the muzzle of their revolvers against his stomach as he emerged from a saloon in the "tenderloin" section of the city. Crowe declared he would return to Omaha without requisition papers. He cursed bitterly at his arrest, expressing chagrin at his apprehension in a town the size of Butte, where he, as he said, had traveled the world over and evaded capture in all the large cities.

Crowe has two brothers in Montana, one living in Butte and the other at Great Falls.

A friend of Crowe's tipped the local police of Crowe's presence in the city, and his arrest followed after photographs of the fugitive had been secured from Omaha.

NO SUPERLATIVES DESCRIBE FRAUDS

Attorney Prosecuting Cassie L. Chadwick Strongly Terms The Woman's Crimes.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Cincinnati, Ohio, October 3.—The case of Mrs. Cassie L. Chadwick was taken up again today by the judges of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals. Attorney Sullivan, who has charge of the prosecution declares that there are "no adjectives yet to describe the stupendous frauds of this woman." The case was brought into the court of appeals on a writ of error by Mrs. Chadwick's attorney, who had been sentenced to ten years in the Ohio penitentiary after conviction in the United States Court at Cleveland. In the name of justice, Judge Lurion has advanced the case before all others on the calendar in order that there might be an early trial.

CHARLEY DEXTER STABBED FELLOW BALL PLAYER

Quarrel Over Paying for Hack When Drinking Bout Is Finished, and Catcher Uses Big Knife.

Des Moines, Iowa, Oct. 3.—While intoxicated Charles Dexter, a star catcher of the Des Moines Western league ball team Monday evening stabbed First Baseman H. Q. Bateman of the Milwaukee American association team.

Dexter, Bateman and several others of the Des Moines and Milwaukee teams were making the rounds of the city in a hack in what they called a "farewell" tour. They drank heavily and when the trip ended Dexter and Bateman quarreled over paying for the hack. Bateman called Dexter a vile name, whereupon Dexter drew a long knife and slashed Bateman across the bosom, the blade cutting into the lung. Dexter continued to threaten others of his associates when he was arrested.

Dexter is widely known as a ball player and was one of the youngest players to enter the National league, being signed with Baltimore at the age of 16. After several years with Baltimore he went to Louisville as manager. Later on he started in with St. Joseph in the Western league, but resigned and came to Des Moines. Bateman lives at Melissa, Texas. He and Dexter were long-time friends.

When Leading Camels.

When a number of camels travel they are usually led by a strong bull, who keeps the rest in order. If the leader should fall ill, or be absent from any other cause, the herd almost invariably mutinies. In Asia Minor the duty of leading camel caravans is frequently devolved to donkeys. This may sound curious, but it must be remembered that in the east the donkey is an important animal.

MOB DOES NOT PERMIT ORDERS

Of Court To Be Followed Out..Threaten Judge If He Persists In His Course.

ORDERS SLOT MACHINES ALL OUT

Sheriff And Marshal Find Only One Machine In The Town And Jurist Orders Them Imprisoned For Contempt.

Brighton, Colo., Oct. 3.—County Judge A. H. Guthrie was roughly handled Monday by a mob which pulled him from an engine on which he was about to flee from town in fear of violence, and forced him to rescind an order committing to jail Sheriff James P. Higgins and Marshal Edward Denney for failure to suppress gambling and Sunday liquor traffic.

In the center of an angry crowd Judge Guthrie announced the recall of his order, and by this action undoubtedly saved himself from being injured. He was, however, made the target of many imprecations and hastened for safety to Denver.

The question of shutting the saloons on Sunday and of suppressing slot machines and other gambling devices in Adams county is one on which the citizens are about evenly divided. Judge Guthrie summoned before him Mayor James Counter, the town trustees, Sheriff Higgins and Marshal Denney. These officials reported to the judge that they were considering the advisability of stopping gambling. Judge Guthrie said this was not satisfactory, and ordered the sheriff and marshal to go out and seize at once all slot machines and other paraphernalia for gambling.

Sends Officials to Jail.
Business men in whose stores there were slot machines heard of the order and quickly hid them. The sheriff and marshal found only one machine. When they reported this to the court, Judge Guthrie apparently was angry. He ordered the sheriff and marshal committed to jail forthwith for contempt.

Two citizens were deputized to take the officials to jail, but a crowd meanwhile began a demonstration of misunderstanding. I gave the officers orders to bring the gambling devices into court. One of the slot machines in Sheriff Higgins' saloon, was not brought into court, consequently Sheriff Higgins was in contempt. It was not my intention to imprison the entire city and county government."

The leading opponents of Judge Guthrie say he exceeded his authority.

—FORTY YEARS AGO—

Janesville Daily Gazette, Tuesday, October 2, 1865.—City Items.—Messrs. F. A. Wheeler & Sons, finding their woolen factory quite small, have been making large additions to accommodate new machinery, for office purposes, etc.

Mary Dorey, whose son and daughter were sent to the reform school last spring, was caught with a piece of calico taken from Klondike & Leach's store, and has been tried and sentenced to six months in jail.

(By Telegraph from Kansas.)
Atchison, October 2.—Holiday's overland mail route is now entirely free from Indians, and the stages are arriving on fast time, six days from Colorado, eleven days from Utah, thirteen days from Nevada, fifteen days from Idaho and Montana, and eighteen days from California.

Sugar Mills at the State Fair.—Below we give the list of premiums awarded on sugar mills at the State Fair. It will be noticed that the popular mills of Messrs. Skinner & Co. have again taken the palm: Best Apparatus Complete—E. W. Skinner & Co., Madison, first premium—silver medal and $20.
2d do Apparatus Complete—James Harris & Co., Janesville, recommended for 2d premium.
Best Gearing Mill—E. W. Skinner & Co., Madison, 1st premium—diploma.
Best Sweep Sugar Mill—E. W. Skinner & Co., diploma.
2d Best Sweep Sugar Mill—E. W. Sorgho, Machine Co.—$5.00.
Best Plantation Mill—E. W. Skinner & Co.—first premium.

The above statement of the action of the Committee in this department is from the Madison Journal, and is an illustration of the fact that the award of premiums at fairs are past finding out. We presume that not one man in a hundred who looked at the operation of the mills on exhibition at the Fair grounds, had a doubt that the machinery of Jas. Harris & Co., of this city, would receive the first premium. It certainly worked the freest, seemed to be the most efficient, and we understand that the Committee admitted that the best sugar was produced by it, and yet the committee "recommended" that a second premium be given it! Of course all these things will continue to be, as long as the committees are necessarily constructed the way they are. It cannot be expected for instance that a good judge of a stallion would of necessity be a competent man to pass on machinery; nor a connoisseur of fine arts be best adapted to decide upon the merits of patent churns, washing machines and rat traps. Until the community is so far educated as to make it any easy matter to select competent judges in various departments the awards of premiums must be of comparatively little account, unless the men comprising the committee in a given case are competent and well versed in the subject they are called to pass judgment upon. We do not know the names of the gentlemen comprising the committee on sugar mills, but their decision in this instance cannot fail to elicit a smile from those who gave much attention to the sorghum camp.

..COMING ATTRACTIONS..

SCENE FROM "PARSIFAL," AT MY
The production of "Parsifal" at the Myers Grand on Thursday, Oct. 5, may be considered the most important event in the dramatic history of the city. Through the enterprise of Messrs. Martin & Emery, under whose auspices the great festival play will be presented, the principal cities throughout the country are given the opportunity of witnessing this masterpiece of literature which the ablest cities of the east have pronounced in all respects deserving of serious attention and the sincerest commendation.

When Herr Conrad gave "Parsifal" at the Metropolitan opera-house, New York, he had the advantage of the largest and most complete stage in the United States and his task was comparatively easy compared to Messrs. Martin & Emery's. But all admit that the settings of this production are of remarkable beauty and that it is in all respects the most complete ever seen outside of the metropolis.

Herr Conrad's spectacle may go more in exact compliance with the festival conditions which surround the production at the Baireuth "Temple," but it nevertheless remains a foreign work, foreign in language and therefore in spirit. But Messrs. Martin & Emery by having the mystic play presented in English virtually transplants it to our soil, and with this presentation marks the commencement of a new era in our artistic growth. For with this most difficult of all modern dramas adequately given in English, and made successful, there is no reason why any other of the masterpieces of literature should not be similarly treated.

FEDERAL RECEIPTS INCREASE

Government Statement Shows a Surplus of Nearly $9,000,000.

Washington, Oct. 3.—The monthly statement of the government receipts and expenditures shows that for the month of September, 1905, the total receipts were $50,551,159 and the expenditures $41,309,676, leaving a surplus for the month of $8,941,000 and a deficit for the three months of the fiscal year of $9,574,000. The surplus for September, 1904, was nearly $6,000,000 and the deficit for the corresponding three months in 1904 was $17,557,000. The receipts from customs sources last month were $27,244,147, a gain of over $4,000,000 as compared with September last year; internal revenue, $20,797,680, a gain of $356,000; miscellaneous, $2,509,331, a loss of $968,870. The expenditures last month are $880,000 in excess of those for September, 1904, the principal increase being on account of public works.

LIVES DEARER THAN OUR VERY OWN

How many lives dearer to us than our very own have been placed in needless jeopardy by failure to provide against and forestall the great suffering which too frequently accompanies and follows the bearing of children? That we would do anything within our power to obviate the possibility of such an happening is too patent to admit of question; therefore—mark well this fact—a BRADFIELD.

MOTHER'S FRIEND

by name, has been devised, whose function it is to prepare in advance the muscles and tissues intimately associated with parturition.

This liniment is for external application. By its use the parts are relaxed and enabled to withstand not only the actual strain brought to bear on them during accouchement, but also to rally from this ordeal and speedily regain their normal proportions and tonicity. It is not irritating to the most sensitive surfaces, and is applicable to all cases. It's not enough to call it Mother's Friend—it's the friend of the whole family. $1.00, all druggists. Book "Motherhood" free.

THE RATE MAKING POWER.

Senator Joseph B. Foraker of Ohio is now campaigning his own state in the interests of the republican party. In a speech at Bellefontaine, the other day, he handled the question of rate making power by the government, and showed conclusively that the scheme is impractical. His opinion is well worth reading. He said in part:

"It has been charged that freight rates are too high, that rebates are secretly given and that discriminations are practiced, and it is proposed that all these evils shall be cured by conferring the rate making power on the Interstate Commerce Commission.

"From the evidence taken it appears that there are various kinds of practices and abuses that should be prohibited, and there will no doubt be legislation of that character at the approaching session of congress, for there can be no question about the power or wisdom of appropriate regulation of the railroad business of the country.

"It is gratifying that railroad men and shippers alike testify with substantial unanimity that the Elkins
law, passed by congress in February, 1903, has been so successful in its operation that the granting of rebates has been practically discontinued, or if not wholly discontinued, the law has been found by practical tests of its inefficiency to be ample, if properly enforced, to thoroughly accomplish
its purpose.

"The statutes applicable to discrimi-
nations can be made much more exlicit and effective, and as a result of the investigations that have been made and the consideration that has been given to this subject, there will undoubtedly be appropriate legislation enacted at the next session of congress to prohibit and punish in so far as it may be possible so to provide all discriminating abuses.

"But what appear to be discriminations are in many instances found on investigation to be due to the law of competition and the result of natural forces and conditions, over which neither congress nor the railroads
have any control.

"The rate making is probably the most complicated and difficult work connected with transportation. The railroads employ for this work the brightest and most skillful men they can find. These men command large salaries and earn them. Their work is of scientific character. It cannot be done except by experts.

"The railroad systems of the country have probably more than 5,000 men in their employment today doing nothing else but making transportation rates for the traffic that is being hailed. They must not only make rates as low as justice to the railroads
will allow, but they must make them independent, so that shippers can with facility send their products
throughout the whole country.

"A better way may be found of making these rates than that which is now in vogue, but I do not believe it possible for congress to provide it
by intrusting such a complicated, delicate, and vitally important duty to any such agency of its creation as
is that which has been proposed.
There are serious legal questions involved in such a proposition. There are numerous difficulties of a practical character that must arise the moment the government undertakes
such a duty.

"To take control of the rate making power is to take charge of the revenues of the roads, and that means that the government is to assume the responsibility not only of determining what rates shall be charged, but also of necessity how much money a railroad shall be allowed to make, and thus determining also of necessity what improvements it shall be permitted to make, what extensions it may build, what equipment it must provide, what new tracks it may lay,
and what kind of service it shall render; for rates are so interdependent that there is no such thing as possible as changing one without affecting many.

"Any other notion is a delusion refuted by conditions and experience. In short, if the government is to determine how much money a railroad shall be allowed to make it must of necessity determine also what expenditures shall be permitted. None of these things can be escaped, and none of them can be done by the government so well as they are now being done by the companies themselves.

"The time was, and not very long ago, when it was a maxim recognized and advocated by all political parties, but especially by the democratic party, that that country was the best governed that was least governed.
Now the tendency seems to be in the opposite direction: for every ill, real or imaginary, from which we may suffer, governmental relief or control
is sought.

"Much good has been accomplished
in this way, but the pendulum should not be allowed to swing too far. Liberty of trade and commerce is the life that imparts competition and secures a healthy and vigorous development of our resources. If it be unduly hampered and restricted greater evils will result than any we are striving to escape."

ol, and is facing a libel suit on that account. It next accused the Peruna Medicine company with printing the picture and testimonial of Congressman George H. White of North Carolina without permission. The Peruna company has commenced suit for $250,000 damages against the Ladies'
Home Journal in a Chicago court.
The Peruna company maintains the denial from Congressman White was secured by the Ladies' Home Journal

Marquette Eagle-Star: An article
"For the Safety of the Public," from the pen of Hon. John J. Esch, of La Crosse, congressman from the Seventh Wisconsin district, appears in the October number of the American Illustrated Magazine. In it Mr. Esch calls attention to a bill he has before congress to make the use of the block system compulsory on all railroads as a protection to human life. Under the terms of the bill the railroads are at liberty to choose any block system they prefer and take four years in which to install it, unless their earnings are above $1,500 per mile, in which event the block system may be ordered by Jan. 1, 1907.

Are Not Scared.

Green Bay Gazette: Governor La
Follette's friends now find it necessary to make the threat of his running for a fourth term in order to scare some members of his own faction. In the past it was found necessary to use this threat in order to jur the souls of the stalwarts. It worked then and his close advisors seem to think it ought to work as well with the balance of his followers. The only trouble there lies in the fact that the ones who should be properly scared are on to the game
as they have seen it worked before and know just how much stock to take in it.

Connor, McGillivray and Houser all know that La Follette is about ready to make the announcement of his acceptance of the senatorship and they also believe that the one who puts up the boldest front is the one who in the end will force that faction
to recognize him as the only logical candidate to fill their master's shoes
in the end. This will in all probability be the result regardless of the new primary election law which is to be put in force next year.

Enjoying Painful Emotions.

Superior Telegram: The Chicago
Chronicle comments in an interesting manner on the enjoyment people seem to get by having painful emotions aroused. People used to crowd the theatres to see Clara Morris die of consumption and to weep over the sorrows of East Lynne, or the Two Orphans or Little Nell.

In more recent days a greater number of people have concluded that they have tragedies enough of their own without paying for them and they go to the theatre only to laugh and be entertained by pleasant and mirthful things.

But there are still plenty of tragedy lovers. Human nature is full of contradictions and one of them is the apparent pleasure which human beings take in painful sights, sounds and emotions.

As a general proposition it might be said that it is a painful thing to visit a hospital, to look upon blind
and armless beggars, to see a street car run over a woman, to see a strong man impose upon and beat a child, to visit a deathbed and witness the gasping and the contortions of conscience of a dying person. It is generally supposed that anger, hatred, indignation, sympathy and pity are painful emotions and that even solitarily is their stand.

On the other hand, there is an almost universal disposition among human beings to subject themselves to these feelings, though different people are constituted somewhat differ-ently in this regard. Bull fights, chicken fights, dog fights, prize fights
and street fights are greatly sought after by some people and a much larger number are attracted by hanging and by great casualties in which many lives are lost and the dead are frightfully mangled.

Strange to say, there is not enough pain and suffering in actual life to satisfy this craving for painful emotions, and the human family from time immemorial has been given to fictitious presentations of suffering
for the purpose of exciting them artificially.

This has been done by the novel and the drama. A person will sit a whole evening in tears over a story of persecution, suffering and painful deeds portrayed in a novel or represented more realistically on the stage
and have a really good time and praise
the story or the play extravagantly.
The most of us can remember the intense enjoyment and fearful rapture
that our grandmothers used to experience at funerals.

The world has swung away from these emotional intoxications to some extent and whether it will ever swing
back again no one can tell.

The puzzle remains, however, that founded in the human mind and that pleasure and pain are completely con-
founded in the human mind and that
to this day the greatest pleasure of many people is found in the experience of painful and fearful emotion.

Painful Ignorance.

"I don't believe," asserted Farmer Foddershucks, "that the editor of this here Agricultural Journal has ever been on a farm in his life. I'm internal evidences I'm led to believe that the feller don't know enough 'bout
farmin' ter plant his feet in 'a' road
an' raise a cloud of dust!"—Cleveland Leader.

ROAD WORK BILLS
ARE DISALLOWEDFinance Committee Holds Up Over $243 Worth of Claims For "Repairs" on Linn and Academy Sts.

It was expected that the mayor's order of Friday, calling on Street Commissioner James Bennett to desist
from making too elaborate repairs on Academy and Linn streets, would be heard from in the council meeting. As it turned out the discussion did not go beyond a protest on the part of certain aldermen against this and similar work previously done on Center avenue and other streets in that locality. But the end is not yet. Alderman Jackson, in his report of the finance committee, announced that a number of bills submitted for what the committee considered was macadamizing work on certain streets, had been disallowed on the grounds that such work had not been ordered by the council and was illegal. It was the opinion of the city attorney that practical macadamizing of the streets
was illegally done when only repairs
were ordered.

The bills disallowed total $243.42
and include items for the services of the street roller and laborers. The names of those who had bills for work in the fourth ward ranging from $22.50 to $35.00 disallowed are: John Flynn, Simon Kuster, Martin Costello, Jas. Condon, Chas. Cantwell,
Richard Murphy, Jerry Leahy, Wm.
Minnick, Chas. Brierty, Michael Fur-ey, and O. L. Perry. Those whose claims for work in the fifth ward
were not honored are: Simon Kuster, Jas. Hagony, Jerry Murphy, Sam
Gagan, Thos. Stack, Chas. Cantwell,
Richard Murphy, Jerry Leahy, Wm.
Minnick, Chas. Brierty, and O. L.
Perry. Two hundred loads of crushed stone at 90 cents a yard will also have to be paid by someone other than the city.

After Ald. Jackson had concluded his brief announcement, Mayor Hutchinson stated to the council that his attention had been called to the character of the street work being done in the fourth and fifth wards on Friday and that he had immediately ordered the street commissioner to desist. He deemed it unfair and unjust to allow the provisions of the city charter for the city to permit a street
to be practically macadamized under the local of repairs, especially in view of the fact that at this very time it was about to macadamize in the third ward and lay the burden on the owners of the property benefited.

The next heard of the matter was just before the close of the meeting
when Ald. Hagar introduced an order calling for the repairing of South Academy and Linn streets with crushed stone. As an order calling for the repairing of these streets, but containing no crushed stone provision, had been passed at a previous meeting,
there was immediate objection. Ald.
Merritt called upon the city clerk to read the resolution passed by the council last fall whereby the resolution of October, 1899, was repealed
and repair work was declared to consist in whatever would restore a street to proper condition for traffic
but not to be in the nature of permanent improvement. Ald. Jackson declared it was unfair and unjust to practically macadamize streets out of the ward funds. Somebody was getting something for nothing. Mayor Hutchinson announced that he would declare the motion out of order.

TELL A JOKE; HE LIKES IT.

Men say that nine women out of ten can't see the point of a good joke
without having it explained.

Whether this is true or not, it is certainly true that when a man finds this tenth woman he lingers by her side.

Put a man in the company of women and let him tell a bright, sharp story. The woman that sees the point first and laughs the quickest is the woman toward whom the man unconsciously directs the remainder of his conversation.

Let a man be chatting to a number of girls. He gives a quaint little allusion that when fitly applied has a funny side to it. The woman who looks up quickly with the spirit of recognition is the woman he remembers.

The woman with the sense of humor is belle of the present day. She is the fashion. Men say she is a novelty. If so, that is one reason why she is the belle. To be like every other woman in a crowd means social obli-viation.

To see the funny side of things has more than a social value. The woman who sees the funny side of every-day
trials saves herself many wrinkles
and saves her family much suffering.

The woman with a sense of humor
seldom worries herself or her friends.
She is like a breath of fresh air; she refreshes every one she meets. She is cheery, and a bit of her cheerfulness remains in the hearts of those who have been near her.

AN EVERY DAY OCCURENCE

Mr. Chas. Bissell of 207 Locust street, Janesville, employed by A. P. Lovejoy, had quite a novel experience yesterday. He went to sleep and had a pleasant dream and when he awoke he found that while asleep he had gotten rid of a lot of bad teeth absolutely without his knowledge or feeling. Before going home both he and his wife thanked Dr. Richards, the dentist, most heartily for doing the work absolutely painlessly. Mr. Bissell would willingly assure any inquirers as to the accuracy of the above incident.

THE PAST MONTH WAS REMARKABLE

WEATHER CONDITIONS WERE UNBELIEVINGLY PLEASANT

AVERAGE TEMPERATURE, 68.3

This Was But 6.6 Degrees Lower Than Average For The Hottest Luna of The Year.

Taking into consideration both the record of weather conditions and the temperature averages the past September has been an exceedingly remarkable one. The conditions for twenty-seven days have been kept and of these fifteen, though the equinoctial period occurred during the month, were pleasant. Opposed to this only six were unpleasant all day while the remaining six were partly both ways, being slightly cloudy or the weather changing from pleasant to unpleasant. Comparing the temperature averages to those of August, which was the hottest month of the year according to record, many wonderful things can be said for the thirty-day period that closed Saturday. The general average stood at 68.3 degrees, but 6.6 degrees below the general average of the preceding luna. The high average was 80.2 and the low average 56.4, which decreased from the August averages 6.1 and 7.2 respectively. The table of conditions and temperatures is appended:

Condition.	High Low.
1—Fair	88 64
2—Storm in night	88 60
3—Fair to drizzling	71 58
4—Cloudy	66 56

NEW MUSIC CABINET IS ON EXHIBITION

E. A. Hardy Has Invented A Model For The Use of Music Lovers—

In Kimball's Window.
Tomorrow and for two or three days later there will be on exhibition in the window at Kimball's furniture store a new and beautiful music cabinet, the invention of E. A. Hardy of this city. Mr. Hardy has spent three years in perfecting what is said to be by musicians and those who have seen it, the only perfect music cabinet ever placed on the market. The cabinet itself rests on a hand-carved stand and revolves on hand-fitted ball-bearing plates or turn-table, so that it turns very easily. On opening the doors the music is in a position in racks, so that each place with its title is visible instantly, and every piece must be complete, as the convenience for hanging the music guards against any loose leaves. A neat little device has also been patented by Mr. Hardy for shaping the leaves to give perfect ease in turning at the piano and another device, a lyric-shaped holder, which retains the sheets in position at all times on the piano rack. The cabinet is made in three sizes at present, one holding 100 sheets, second with a capacity for 200 sheets and third holding 1,000 sheets. They are beautifully finished in mahogany and curly birch and will add to the furnishings of the music room. It is quite impossible to describe the beauty of this useful article; it is necessary to see the showing in the Kimball store. Mr. Hardy has only a limited supply of the cabinets for delivery in the near future and advises those desiring their orders completed for the holidays to place them at once. He goes to Milwaukee from here to place his "Up to Date" cabinets on exhibition by urgent request in one of the largest establishments in that city, and he has the assurance of many orders there. It is Mr. Hardy's idea to give Janesville people first opportunity to secure the new cabinet and therefore makes the above suggestion for early orders.

Louis Borbeck

Louis Borbeck passed away at his home, 206 East Milwaukee street, this morning at half-past seven. His demise being the result of a long illness which lasted nearly all summer. The deceased was sixty-four years of age and a native of Christiania, Norway. Twenty-three years ago he removed to America with his family, settling in Stoughton. From there he came to Janesville ten years later and has since resided here. There are left to mourn: a wife, a daughter, Miss Sophia Borbeck, and two sons, Joseph and Martin, all of this city. Notice of the funeral will be given later.

Herman J. J. Kohler

Funeral services over the remains of the late Herman J. J. Kohler were held this afternoon at one-thirty o'clock from the home of his wife, Mrs. Louis Buggs, at 210 Western avenue, and at two from St. Paul's German Lutheran church. Rev. C. J. Koerner was the officiating clergyman and the pallbearers were Otto Wobig, William Kerl, Paul Zahn, Henry Hartig, Paul Schmidt and George Kuhlrow. Interment was in Oak Hill.

ALDERMEN ALARMED AT THE HIGH ART

Proposition of One of Their Number, Decide To Buy No Bronze Muse For Drinking Fountain Until Spring.

Some time ago the city council made provision for the erection of three drinking fountains, one at the Court House park, another on the Corn Exchange, and another at the Five Points. The city engineer drew up designs for these fountains, and castings were ordered of the Love Mfg. Co. of Rockford. Bids for the construction were called for and Aid. Brockhaus, chairman of the committee on parks, announced at the council meeting last evening that G. D. Cannon was the only one who had made a proposition. This was to erect the fountains at $148 each. On motion this offer was accepted.

In drawing his design for the Court House park fountain the city engineer left a place on which an ornamental bit of statuary could be placed. Aid. Brockhaus evidently has some design in mind, as he introduced an order authorizing the city clerk to purchase a bronze figure at $137. Discussion immediately ensued.

"I should like to ask if that is a nude statue?" inquired Mayor Hutchinson suspiciously.

"It's pretty cold weather for a nude one and I think we had better postpone the purchase until spring," said Aid. Jackman, taking the answer to the first question for granted.

"Seems to me we can get along without a statue, but if the aldermen want it, so be it," sentimentally interposed His Honor again.

"I move that statue be left over until spring," said Aid. Morrill.

"Yes, we'll have warmer weather then and we can unveil it," said Aid. Connell.

The motion prevailed and unless rescinded the bronze muse and art in general will have to wait until the cold winter has passed before any roost in Janesville city parks will be available.

M'CADDON'S TROUBLE IS NOT DECIDED

Well Known Circus Man Gives Eighty Thousand Dollars Bail

Bonds.

Janesville friends of Joseph T. McCaddon, the showman who was arrested in England as he was about to sail for America with his dead wife's body, are anxiously waiting for news of his troubles. The following dispatch, though meagre, gives some idea of the difficulties: Joseph T. McCaddon, the showman, arrested on Saturday as he was about to leave for America with the body of his wife, was released today upon furnishing a bail bond in the sum of $80,000. Why the arrest was not made earlier does not appear, though it was known for two weeks that he intended to sail Sept. 30. McCaddon had not time to remove from the steamer the body of his wife or his baggage, including all the books and papers connected with his business, which will be necessary as evidence. In granting bail the magistrate remarked that the "circumstances were peculiar."

COMMITTED SUICIDE BY CARBOLIC ACID

Footville Woman Drinks Bottle of Poison And Dies in Agony Today.

Leaving a note to the effect that she was tired of being alone so much, Mrs. Rosa Douch of Footville drank the contents of a bottle of carbolic acid this morning and was found dead a little while afterwards. Mrs. Douch was formerly Miss Beach of Orfordville. She was about thirty-six years old and her friends in both Footville and Orfordville are shocked at her sudden demise. Her husband is employed by the month on a farm and it is thought she had become melancholy and partially deranged. The remains will be taken to Orfordville for burial and the funeral will be held on Thursday morning at ten-thirty from the Methodist church in that village.

CURRENT NEWS NOTES.

Notice: Special meeting of Canton Janesville No. 9, Patriarchs of Milant, at West Side Odd Fellows' hall this evening at 8 o'clock. Per order F. L. Smith, Commandant; Jas. A. Fathers, Clerk.

Just to Think: Gazette want ads are wonder workers. Man lost a set of false teeth and through a 25c lot ad found them after the first insertion.

Surprise Party: Saturday evening a very pleasant surprise party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Lobodon, South Franklin street. After a bountiful supper the evening was spent in games, music and dancing until the wee small hours of the morning, when the guests took their departure. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Arns, Mr. and Mrs. B. M. and Mrs. G. M. Balesley, Mr. and Mrs. Lyman, Mr. and Mrs. Swanson, Mr. and Mrs. Raphael, Miss Clara Raphael, Mr. and Mrs. Wobig, Mr. and Mrs. Kaufman, Mr. and Mrs. Sherwood. The booby prize, a massive rolling pin, was captured by Mrs. Alf and the first prize, a Haviland china plate, given Mrs. Brunk.

It Is Not Grand Opera: In order that there may be no misunderstanding as to the production of "Parsifal," which comes to the Myers theatre Thursday evening, Manager Myers wishes the statement made that it is a drama and not an opera. The mistaken impression is quite prevalent that it is something similar to the offering of the Savage Grand Opera Co. in the larger cities last season. The dramatic version of this lofty theme is presented in this country for the first time this year, the company having been recently organized in Chicago.

JAS. A. FATHERS,

Treasurer City of Janesville.

PANTOMINE IN COURT TODAY

DEAF AND DUMB MAN ACCUSED OF ILLEGAL FISHING.

LIVELY CHASE OF POLICE

Last Evening Aroused Considerable Interest—Wm. Lewis Was Rifling Abbott's Cigar Case.

About 5:30 yesterday afternoon Chief Appleby and Officer Morrissey were called to the Ottoman House, from whence report came that John Lynch was engaging in a fistie encounter with some hoboes and raising a disturbance. Instead of stopping when the police appeared on the scene, Lynch darted through the side door of the hotel and out into the back lots, eluding Officer Morrissey as the latter made a desperate tackle play and missed him by a hair's breadth. Chief Appleby went down the other way and after pursuing the fugitive through several bars, cornered him in the junkman's place on River street. Lynch showed fight and made a lunge at his captor, whereat the latter quivered him with a severe but well-earned blow. The officers had not been disposed to be severe with him and probably would not have taken him to the lock-up, had he not fled when told to halt. In court this morning he paid a small fine of $1 and costs.

Caught Stealing Cigars

William Lewis, a thimble in the employ of McNamara's hardware store, while slightly under the influence of liquor last evening fancied himself the proprietor of Abbott's bar on South Main street and made three trips to the cigar case, stowing away a number of the best ones on each occasion. Finally he was detected and Officer Morrissey pounced on him just as he had his hand in the case for a third collection. In municipal court this morning he made arrangements to pay a fine and costs amounting to $1.10 for drunkenness.

Other Police Notes

For drunkenness John Carlo, John Bean, and Jess Henkle were each fined $3 and costs in municipal court this morning, but sentence was suspended in order to permit them to shake the dust of Janesville from their feet in double-quick time.

Saturday night two LeGee girls, aged about sixteen years, were found drinking beer in a West Milwaukee street saloon and escorted by Officer Fanning to the police office. After giving them warning to keep out of such places henceforth, Chief Appleby allowed them to depart.

The case of a servant girl working at S. D. Gruib's home on the corner of Jackson and Milwaukee streets, who has been acting queerly of late, was investigated by Chief Appleby this morning and it was deemed desirable to communicate with her parents in Edgerton who will come after her tomorrow. The young woman conceived a mania for packing and unpacking her trunk, accompanying her actions with song.

Deaf and Dumb Fisher

Deputy Game Warden Drafiel brought James Sullivan, a deaf and dumb man who works on the streets, into court this afternoon to answer to the charge of fishing with a set-line and catching undersized ones on the night last spring when the officer made his big roundup. Warden Drafiel found the man in his hip boots, with a boat on the night in question and found a box of fish on his premises. It was supposed that he would plead guilty but when he came before the judge this afternoon he protested his innocence by showing in pantomime that he was fishing with a pole. Warden Drafiel adopting this sort of language indicated his impatience and quite an argument ensued. Finally Sullivan offered the judge $5 to let him off and give him back his boat. The fine is $25. It was decided to hold the case over until Monday and try and secure an interpreter.

SHARON WILL HAVE GAS PLANT AT LAST

National Light Fuel And Gas Company of Janesville Secures The Contract.

After several months of controversy the village of Sharon has decided to become progressive and up-to-date and erect a municipal gas plant that will furnish not only light but also fuel to the belated villagers. The National Light Fuel & Gas company of this city will install the plant, the cost of which will be in the neighborhood of six thousand dollars. Since the village board decided to allow the people to vote whether they wanted a gas plant or not in August last, they have been besieged by gas companies seeking to supply the plant. The victory gained by the Janesville company is quite a plum in their cap. They already have a lighting plant in operation in Janesville—in the Parker Pen factory, which is giving satisfaction. The president of the company is Mr. Charles Mohr, who until recently was manager of the Gazette Job department. Mr. Chamberlain and Mr. Mohr are the principal members of the company and the value of the new product lies in the patent process of its generation, which has been patented by Mr. Mohr after several years of hard work.

CRYSTAL WEDDING DULY CELEBRATED

Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Jerg Surprised By Fifty-two Friends and Relatives Last Evening.

Fifty-two friends and relatives completely surprised Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Jerg last evening, taking possession of their home at 119 Fourth avenue and assisting them in the celebration of their crystal wedding. The well come intruders brought with them heavily laden baskets and at eight o'clock an elaborate supper was spread. During the festivities music was furnished by Professor W. T. Thiele and vocal solos were rendered by Miss Camille Thiele and George F. Carlo. Numerous cut glass gifts were presented to Mr. and Mrs. Jerg. Fred Clemons making a few remarks in behalf of those who contributed. The party was a very enjoyable affair. Mr. and Mrs. Jerg were married on October 2, 1880, the ceremony being performed at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John C. Stanton, 101 Cornelia street. Mrs. Jerg was formerly Miss Cora Stanton.

FARMERS ARE FORCED TO WORK FOR SECOND VICTORY OVER MILTON BUSINESS MEN

With a Change of Pitchers Early in Game the Tables Might Have Been Turned.

Milton, October 3.—The Farmers and Business men played their second game of ball Friday afternoon and the Farmers won by a score of eight to seven. The Yocomen did not have such a soft snap as in the preceding game and had Crandall gone in the box early in the game the village outfit would have won in all probability.

How Athletes Keep Strong and Healthy

Their Diet Should Be a Revelation To Men and Women in the Ordinary Walks of Life.

At this season of the year thousands of young men are devoting several hours a day to the development of their physical strength and endurance and their athletic skill. In practically every university, college, academy, and public school in the United States and Canada the football "squads" are at the height of their activities in preparation for the big games yet to come. From midday noon until long after daylight has gone, their trainers rush them through their plays, now striving to improve this point, now that.

Physical perfection, great endurance and unflinching health are positive essentials in such severe athletic work and nothing that helps to develop and maintain these qualities in the athlete is overlooked or neglected. Perhaps the most important point in the estimation of successful trainers and coaches is the diet of the athlete.

In schools where a "training table" is provided for the athlete, only the most nutritious food is served, and in cases where there is no training table the athlete is advised to eat the most healthful food only. Whether or not he follows such advice is soon shown by his physical condition. If the average man—the business man, the lawyer, the teacher, the clerk, the mechanic, the laborer—took such care as to the food he eats as the athlete does, there would be far less sickness and suffering in this world.

Among athletes the food value of whole wheat is recognized. They have demonstrated what scientists have long declared to be true: that the various food elements found in wheat are the food elements with which the blood and muscle, the tissues and cells, the bone and brain of the human body must be replenished if life and perfect strength are to be sustained.

Every nutritive element of the best white wheat grown is found in Malta-Vita, and it is fast becoming as popular among other people as it long has been among athletes.

Nervous Breakdown.

Nervous breakdown is often due to overworking the digestive organs than to mental strain as such. Absorbent habits in eating, combined with some attention to exercise, make it possible for one to do an immense amount of hard brain work without injury; but to attempt anything out of the ordinary in the way of work while subsisting on the ordinary stimulating diet is to invite disaster.

"Foul Play" Is Suspected.

Bushnell, Ill., Oct. 2.—The dead body of James Hood, a cigarmaker, twenty years old, was found beside the track of the C. B. & Q., one-half mile north of Bushnell. His neck was broken and face slightly bruised. There is suspicion of foul play.

A Romance of the Days When the Lord Redeemed the Children of Israel from the Bondage of Egypt

CHAPTER XXII.

At the mention of his enemy's name Kenkenes turned swiftly about.

Two half clad Nubians were at the river's edge, hauling up an elegant passenger boat. It was deep draft and had many sets of oars. Approaching with some hesitancy and with timid glances toward the tomb beyond, were four others. The foremost was the youth he had seen in Thebes. The next wore a striped tunic. Fourth and last was Uias.

"Now, by my soul," Kenkenes exclaimed aloud, "there is no more mystery concerning the boy!" He turned and took Rachel in his arms.

"Oy God! thou hast been tricked, and I see no help for us. Enter the tomb and close the door, and since thou lovest him better than liberty, let this be thine escape."

He put his only weapon, his dagger, into her hands.

For an instant he gazed at her tense, white face. Then bending over her he kissed her once and put her behind him.

"What want ye?" he demanded of the men.

"A slave," Uias answered evilly, stepping to the fore.

"Your authority?" The fat courier flourished a document and held up a blue jewel, hanging about his neck.

Menephah laid forth his promise to return the lapis lazuli signet to Mentu.

"Thou art undone, knave!" the courier added, with a short laugh. He clipped his hands, and the four Nubians advanced rapidly upon Kenkenes.

There was to be no parley. Kenkenes glanced at the youth. He was not full grown—sparse, light and small in stature.

"I am sorry for thee, boy," Kenkenes muttered. "Thy gods judge between thee and me!"

The Nubians, two by two, each man ready to spring, rushed.

With a bound Kenkenes seized the youth by the ankles and swung him like an animate bludgeon over his head. The attacking party was too precipitate to halt in time, and the yelling weapon swung round, horizontally moving down the foremost pair of men like wooden pins. The weight of the boy, more than the force of the blow, jerked him from the sculいた's hands. Kenkenes recovered himself and retreated. As he did so he stumbled on a fragment of rock. He wrenched it from its bed and balanced it above his head.

The powerful figure with the primitive weapon thus so savage a picture for the remaining pair to contemplate at close quarters. Uias had made no movement to help in the assault. He had felt the weight of the sculいた's hand and had evidently published the savagery of the young man to his assistants. They had come prepared to capture an athletic malefactor, but here was a jungle tiger brought to bay.

They retired till their right fellows should arise.

The vanquished were struggling to gain their feet, and Kenkenes noted it with concern. He was not gaining in this hull. There were other stones about him. He hurried the fragment with a sure aim, and a Nubian, who had been overthrown, dropped limply and stretched himself on the sand.

With a howl the remaining three charged. They were too close for the second missile of Kenkenes to do any slaughter, and he went down under the combined attack, fighting insanely.

"Sit his throat!" Uias shrieked, tumbling on the captive, as Kenkenes, supplanting the captive, strove to shake them off. One of the men raised himself and made ready to obey. Holding to Kenkenes with one hand, he drew a knife from his belt and prepared to strike.

At that instant the captive caught sight of a pale woman face, the eyes blazing with vengeance. There was a flash of a white sleeved arm and the thump and jolt of a dagger driven through flesh. The murderous Nubian yelled and tumbled, kicking on the sand. He carried a knife at the juncture of the neck and shoulder.

Instantly there was a chorus of yells. "She devil! Hyema!"

Uias detached himself from the struggle and plunged after Rachel, now in full sight of Kenkenes. He saw her retreat, warding off the fat courier with her hands; he saw her stumble and fall; he saw Aumbis fly, with a chatter of rage, in the face of the courier, and, struggling mightily, he threw off his captors and leaped to his feet.

AND THEN THE LIGHT WENT OUT IN EGYPT.

From the sea to the first cataract, from the deepest recess in the Arabian hills to the remotest peak in the Libyan desert, Egypt was blinded and muffled and smothered in a dead, black night, even darkness that could be felt.

Kenkenes stood still. Harsh lands were no longer on him, and for an instant no sound was to be heard. Profound gloom enveloped him. His every sense was frustrated.

Some one of his assailants had found his heart with a knife, and this was death, he thought.

Then strange, faroff murmurings filled his ears. From the river and beside him went up wild, hoarse cries of men in mortal terror. Attempts began to climb like a vast and troubled live. The distant pastures became blatant, and the poultry near the butts of rustics cackled in wild dismay. In the nins about beasts whimpered, and the air was full of the screaming of bewildered birds.

With the awakening of sound Kenkenes knew that another plague had befallen Egypt.

The dread that might have transfixed him was overcome by the instant recollection of Rachel's peril. No restraining hands were upon him, but he stood yet a space attempting to catch some rift in the thick night.

There was not one ray of light. While he waited it was more distinctly borne in upon him that during that space Rachel might suffer.

He called her name loudly and listened. There was no answer in her voice.

If Rachel had been near she would have replied to him. The alternative he had to choose as her possible fate was death in the Nile or capture by Uias. The one he fought away from him wildly; the other made him frantic. And the realization of his own helplessness, with the picture of her distress at that moment, crushed him.

A tangle of wind mown reeds tripped him and pitched him to his knees among the high marsh growth.

He did not rise. The babe in pain cried to his mother; the man in his maturity may outgrow the susceptibility to tears, but he never outwears the want of a stronger spirit upon which to call in his hour of distress.

Kenkenes fell on his face and prayed.

"O thou who art somewhere behind the phantom gods that we have raised, to whom all prayer ascends by many chartered paths; thou who canst spread this sooty night across the morning skies and turn to milk the bones of men; thou who didst undo my surest plans, who dost mock my boasted power, who hast stripped me till my feeble self is bared to me even in this dreadful night; thou who wast a fending hand about her, who art her only succor now, to whom she prays, and by that sign, thou very God, I bow to thee!"

"My lips are stiff at prayer to such as thou. But what need of my tongue's abashed interpretation of that which I would say since even the future's history is open unto thee?"

"I have run, my course without ending. I have aid, and lo, here have I craved a voice appealing through the night—no voice."

"Now wilt thou heed an alien's plea? Wilt thou know a stranger petitioning before thy high and holy place? How shall I win thine ear? Charge me with any mission, weigh me with a lifetime of penances, strip me of power everlasting, but grant me leave to supplicate thy throne."

"Not for myself do I pray, O hidden God! Not one jot would I overtax thy bounty toward me beyond the suffrance of my devotion. But for her I pray—for her—out somewhere in this unlighting gloom, her tender maidenhood uncomfited, with night, with death, with long dissonance threatening her. Let her hear, O thou August Warden! Let her not cry out to thee in vain! Be thou as a wall about her, as a light before her, as a firm path beneath her feet. Lo, I offer up myself as ransom for her—myself—all I have! Take her from me, don't mine eyes the sight of her forever, blot me wholly out of her heart, yield me over to the wrath of unlighting gloom, and to thine unknown vengeance thereafter, but save her, great God, save her from her enemy!"

"Dost thou hear me, O Holy Mystery? Is there no sign, no manifestation that thou dost attend?"

"Nay, but I know that thou hearest me! By my faith in thy being I know it, Lord!"

Peace fell on him, and he slept. The midmorning sun shone in his face before he awakened.

He leaped to his feet, cramped and stiffened by his long inactivity, and looked about him. Near by was a disturbed spot of wide circumference. Here had the struggle taken place. Here also some of the Nubian was stupefied with the blood of the youth who had been wounded by Rachel. Fresh footprints led toward the water. He followed them with a wildly beating heart. There were no marks of a little sandal. At the Nile edge the deep lie out by a keel was still visible in the wet sand. His own boat and the other were gone. All other signs had been obliterated, for the wind had been busy during the darkness.

Across the unfenced land, or, rather, the land, which would have been wheat covered but for the locusts, he saw the huts of rustics, and to each of these he went, asking of the pallid and terror-stricken tenants if Rachel had come to them. Gaining no information, he went next to Masasrah, appealing his hunger with succulent roots plucked from the loam beside the river. The quarries were deserted. The pocket in the valley where the Israelites had pitched their tents was as solitary as it had ever been. There was no place here to shelter the lost girl.

Slowly Kenkenes made his way to Memphis.

FREIGHT RATE DECISION NEAR

BOARD IS TO MAKE REDUCTION

Tariff on All Hauls of More Than Twenty-five and Less Than 250 Miles Is to Be Cut Down 18 or 20 Per Cent.

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 3.—If the story afloat here is correct the railroad and warehouse commission will to-day hand down a decision in the now celebrated freight-rate case that will mean a loss to the railroads doing business in Illinois of about $8,000,000 a year. The story is based on a statement made by Secretary Kilpatrick, but owing to the failure of similar announcements to materialize in the past, communication was had with Chairman James Neville at his home in Bloomington.

Mr. Neville said that it was not likely the case would be reached to-day, but he intimated that the coming meeting of the committee would see the final disposition of the case. He said there were a number of crossing cases to come up in advance of the freight case and it would be necessary to dispose of them before giving further to discuss the matter or to give any indication of what the commission had decided.

Horizontal Reduction of Rates.

According to reports which are in circulation among the politicians here the commission has decided upon a horizontal reduction of freight rates. One story is that the reduction is 18 per cent and another is that it is 20 per cent. It is known that both figures have been under consideration as the basis for the decision. It is also known that the proposed reduction is to apply to all hauls of more than 250 miles. Thus the demand for lower rates for long-distance hauls which were made by some of the Chicago shippers who want to get into southern territory is denied.

The board according to the report of its finding, will hold that the long-distance rates are now sufficiently low and a reasonable charge for the service given. Proportionately they are much less than the short-haul rates.

Means $8,000,000 to Roads.

The reported reduction of 20 per cent, if correct, will mean a great reduction in the revenues of Illinois roads. It is not possible to say how much they will lose, because the maximum rates are not now in force in every instance. An estimate based upon the schedule in force and the one which the commission is reported to have adopted makes the loss to the roads $8,000,000 a year.

The freight rate case, of which the reported decision is the culmination, was the result of agitation inaugurated by the board of railroad and warehouse commissioners three years ago last March. They sent out a circular inviting shippers who were dissatisfied to make complaints and stirred up a number of towns which organized to fight the railroads.

Make Terms With Shippers. Then commenced a tedious hearing. As it progressed the railroads, one by one, made terms with the complaining shippers until finally only Springfield and Decatur had complaints. Twice it was announced from the office of the railroad and warehouse commission that a decision was at last to be given, but it did not come and most of the petitioners gave up the fight in disgust.

Last February former Attorney General Hamlin and Felix J. Strechek, on behalf of the Retail Grocers' association, got permission to reopen the case and were joined by the Chicago Shippers' association. The Chicago men soon made a settlement with the railroads, however, and withdrew, leaving the outside shippers to fight the case.

RAMSEY AT OUTS WITH BOARD

President of Washob Objects to Re-election Prolonging His Vacation.

New York, Oct. 3.—At a meeting of the directors of the Washob railroad a resolution was passed granting President Joseph Ramsey, Jr., an indefinite extension of his leave of absence. Mr. Ramsey attended the meeting and formally protested against what he considered an effort on the part of the board to reelect him as president.

Berlin, Oct. 3.—Electrical firms have carried out their threat to inaugurate a general lockout if their striking employees did not return to work, and 35,000 men were rendered idle. Negotiations are in progress for a settlement.

'MISS BLONDEL' NOT A WOMAN

Handsome Young Tamer Is Said to Be Frank Kennedy, a Professional Female Impersonator, Well Known to the Stage.

Gilman, Ill., Oct. 3.—Angered because she had bestowed a bigger piece of meat on his rival, the big lion Roosevelt of the John Robinson menagerie Monday turned upon his trainer, known as Miss Aime Blondel of Chicago, and, seizing her body in his enormous jaws, gave her wounds which, it is thought, will prove fatal. A crowd of 10,000 people witnessed the tragedy and was thrown into a panic. One woman, Mrs. Jerome Darlington of Indianapolis, fell against a stake and was fatally injured.

Miss Blondel and her group of performing lions, thirty in number, were one of the most important features of the John Robinson circus. The big lion Roosevelt was the star of the group and had distinguished himself with his keeper for his docility and friendliness. He was named after the president when he was first elected governor of New York. Senator "Dry Dollar" Sullivan sprinkled the wine at the lion's christening.

Big Lion Is Chastising. After the lions had jumped through hoops, played see-saw, Mme. Aime put them in a circle in the steel arena to feed them raw meat. When Miss Blondel gave to another lion the choicest of the meat Roosevelt in a fit of jealousy sprang upon her and fastened his huge claws in her back and right arm, leaving frightful wounds. The right arm was torn almost from its socket.

Blood flowed from the cage and all the animals of the menagerie became panic-stricken and set up a frightful noise, which threw the big crowd into a panic. The company of United States cavalrymen with the circus were summoned with their rifles and poured bullets into the big brute until he fell to the floor of the arena.

Hot Weather in Japan. Gets Too Intense for Beggars to Take Out Their Real Children.

Mr. Sato, of the Japanese peace commission, strolling in Portsmouth the pleasant and primed coolness of the American summer.

"Oh, yes, here in Portsmouth our August is pleasant enough," a correspondent said, "but you should visit Philadelphia or St. Louis at this season. Then your idea of our summers would be different."

"We have hot summers in Japan," said Mr. Sato. "We have hot weather stories there, too. For instance: 'A philanthropic Japanese rode through the streets one scorching day when a beggar woman accosted him, holding a baby in her arms. 'Kind sir,' she said, 'will you not give a copper coin to your servant, who is in sore need?'

"Yes, gladly," said the gentleman, and he took out a handful of small change.

"But just as he was about to give this to the woman he chanced to look closely at her baby, and behold, it was only a great doll."

"Why," he cried, 'that baby is a fraud, a sham.' 'Yes, your honor,' said the woman. 'It was so hot I left the real one home to-day.'

Lion Tamer Not a Woman. Chicago, Oct. 3.—It is learned that the supposed young woman who was fatally mangled by lions in Robinson Brothers' circus at Gilman, Ill., was not a woman, but a young man who has been acting as a female impersonator for several years. His right name is Frank Kennedy and his father, Ed Kennedy, is a resident of Milwaukee.

Englishmen Assert We Eliminate All the Romance from Capture of Robbers.

Our cousins on the other side of the Atlantic, says an English paper, are so smart in ordinary matters of everyday occurrence that they are robbing life of half its charm of romance.

The other day a man had his overcoat stolen at 3:25 and, discovering his loss at 3:26, he telephoned to the police and reported the affair to the inspector on duty at 3:29. At 3:30 a detective came in search for the coat, and ran to catch the thief and coat in a pawnbroker's shop at 3:40.

No official information is forthcoming as to how many minutes elapsed between the arrest and conviction of the thief, but efforts are being made to trace the telephone exchange girl, who lost two minutes in connecting the robbed man with the police.

In this country we are more particular as to preserving the romantic and sentimental side. Fifteen minutes does not give a man time enough to realize a loss, or a thief to appreciate his gain.

Our record reads something like this: January 2, overcoat stolen; January 10, reported to police by letter; January 31, letter acknowledged; February, March and April, police circulate pawnclothes; December, loss obtained; January 2 (anniversary of loss), an arrest; January 29, prisoner discharged—case of mistaken identity.

No doubt our method is better, after all. It may not be so safe, but the sensation lasts longer, and a little loss is made to go a long way.

Pointing the Moral.

W. P. James writes: "Book borrowers are incorrigible, and book collectors must understand that for themselves 'charitableness' is an essential virtue. I recall a good story told by Ashby Sterry of a book collector who solemnly warned him against ever lending a book, and who, to enforce his moral, led him to a well-stocked bookshelf in his own house, saying: 'Look at those shelves. Every book on them was lent to me.'"

EMPHATIC TALK

The Kind That Carries Conviction to Every Janesville Reader.

Conviction must follow such emphatic proof as is given here. The testimony of Janesville residents should satisfy the most skeptical.

Here is a Janesville case. Read it and see it doesn't exist in the face of this evidence.

Mr. E. T. Fish, of 355 Rayline street, proprietor of the Fish Dry Line says: "When I was twenty years of age I fell in with a crowd, and ever since that I was troubled more or less with a dull aching pain across the loins. It never laid me up but it was often painful and annoying. Of late years I have gone to a physician every six months and had myself thoroughly examined under the impression that there might be something wrong with my kidneys. The diagnosis always resulting in the physician claiming these organs were sound, but as the pains existed when I lay down and do not in my Janesville papers that Doan's Kidney Pills were guaranteed to cure just such troubles I procured a box at the People's Drug store and took them. Doan's Kidney Pills are a good preparation. My back has not ached since I used them. I have heard others speak very complimentary of them and if I did not know their merit and required such a medicine I would consider it a favor if some one suggested their use to me. For this reason I endorse them."

WOMEN OF ARMY POSTS.

Are Under Continual Scrutiny for Possible Departures from Discretion.

The life of an army wife is hard. She lives under a microscope. She is subjected to a constant scrutiny, even more minute than that which the average decent woman in a small town receives—which can be compared only to that brought to bear on the minister's wife in such a town. Furthermore, says the Chicago Inter Ocean, the army wife, if she ventures to be indiscreet, is likely to find the microscope under which she lives instantly enlarged into a telescope through which the whole nation is looking at her. Her husband's position makes their domestic troubles likely to be forced into national prominence, when they are, in fact, no worse than are occurring in every block in civil life.

Under these circumstances it is a wonder not that so many but so few scandals affecting army wives get into the newspapers. The fact that they do not—that the percentage of domestic scandals in the army attracting public attention is smaller than in civil life—is the strongest possible testimony to the propriety and discretion of the army post woman. The old army toast of obligation—"The ladies, God bless them!"—was well warranted. The average army wife has equals, but no group of women averages higher.

NAME FOR YOUNG SALMON

Term That Is Not in Common Use Among Fishermen in America.

A grilse is a young salmon on its first return from the sea, and is intermediate in character between the smolt and the salmon proper, the principal difference as compared to the latter being, says London Field, a more distinctly emarginate caudal fin when fully spread out and a smaller mouth, the upper jaw extending to below the posterior third of the eye in the smolt, to beyond the vertical of the posterior border of the eye in the salmon.

In salmonids size does not always coincide with maturity, and the argument which has often been adduced in favor of the grilse and salmon being distinct fishes, viz., that the former may be as large as the latter, is of no importance.

The following is the definition of a grilse by a high authority on the life-histories of fishes, the late Prof. Brown Goode: "The grilse is the adolescent salmon; it weighs from two to six pounds, and is more slender and graceful than the mature fish, with smaller head, thinner scales, more forked tail, and spots rounder, more numerous, and bluish rather than jetty black."

Postmaster General Cortelyou has concluded his annual vacation and assumed charge of affairs at the post-office department.
